

Council Bearing Down On Bills Owed Hospital

Collection Letters To Be Readied

$12,500 Claimed Delinquent

In the absence of Councilman John Eshelman, chairman of Circleville city council's hospital committee, Robert Adkins Tuesday night proposed that letters be sent to persons owing some $12,500 in delinquent bills to Berger hospital.

Adkins said this could be a "first step," but if it failed to produce results then more drastic steps could be taken.

The latter measures include suing debtors for back bills or hiring a collection agency to contact the delinquents.

Councilmen said they recognized the difficulties in sending letters since some bills are five and six years old and in that time many of those owing bills have moved away.

CITY SOLICITOR George Gerhardt was directed by council to write out a form letter and submit it for the approval of the hospital committee. The warning letters will be printed on the city's mimeograph.

In response to Mayor Thurman I. Miller's plea last meeting to council for funds to paint and authorize funds for needed repairs at Berger hospital, council has agreed for the safety director to advertise for bids on the work.

Plans call for painting the entire structure, repairing the roof, and replacing fallen plaster on ceilings and walls.

Trash Cleanup By City Gets Cool Reception

Circleville residents may find themselves in possession of a year's collection of trash unless city council changes its attitude toward annual "Clean-up Week."

Mayor Thurman I. Miller asked council Tuesday night for its opinion on the annual proclamation which sets city trucks into action clearing out residential trash heaps.

Reaction was cool. Councilmen Ray Anderson and Robert Adkins both declared it is not the city's obligation to clean up private trash collections.

Adkins said, "the people should be civic-minded enough and aware of health conditions collected garbage creates to pay for removal themselves."

Councilman Ray Cook nodded approval saying he believed there was an ordinance which says you "can't create a stench."

City Solicitor George Gerhardt added that there is an ordinance forbidding residents from throwing trash in alleyways.

Standing almost alone in his opinion, Councilman Boyd Horn opined it was the city's obligation to collect the trash for the health and welfare of Circleville citizens.

Restaurants To Get 50 Cents Per Meal For Jail Prisoners

The increased cost of living was recognized by Circleville city council Tuesday night when it unanimously approved an ordinance to add 20 cents per meal costs for prisoners in the city bastille.

Necessity of the increase became apparent after Police Chief William F. McCrady reported he couldn't get restaurants to contract for supplying food under the old law of allowing prisoners 30 cents per meal. The bill passed 6-0 with the absence of Councilman John Eshelman.

Eastmoor Is Accepted

30-Lot Addition Now In City

Acceptance of the Eastmoor addition was made Tuesday night by Circleville city council when it passed unanimously the ordinance which will bring the housing site under city maintenance.

The property which was laid out by Annie M. Heise is located between Franklin and Mound streets and contains approximately 20 building sites.

Provisions of the ordinance states, however, that the residents will be responsible for rough grading the streets and alleys, purchasing materials, and installation and putting in working order all sanitary sewer connections.

Although the land itself was within the corporation limits, when the first addition is applied it must first be accepted by council to make the city responsible for its upkeep once all initial expenses have been eliminated, Councilman Ray Anderson explained.

COUNCIL also approved the March financial report which listed balances as follows:

General fund—$10,365.42; sewerage disposal fund—$2,402.88; Berger hospital fund—$2,076.02; auto street repair fund—$83.76; gasoline tax fund—$4,211.85; water works operating fund—$9,936.07; water works trust fund—$480; water works improvement and extension fund—$19,697.66.

Traffic Light Changes Get City's Approval

Circleville city council Tuesday night approved Councilman Ralph Wallace's motion to empower the city service director to purchase two badly-needed traffic light mechanisms to allow for replacement of the controls in lights at Mound and Scioto streets, and Scioto and Main streets.

The solons also gave backing to Wallace's suggestion that a traffic light be placed at South Court street and Walnut street. Councilmen noted that two deaths have occurred in that block within one year.

An ordinance already has been filed for the purchase of a light for that intersection. City Solicitor George Gerhardt pointed out.

It is now only necessary for the service director to invest.

Dewey Makes Poor Showing

WASHINGTON, April 7—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio became an outstanding favorite today for the Republican presidential nomination as a result of the disastrous defeat of his chief rival, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in the Wisconsin primary.

Taft's stock soared as Republican President-makers realized Dewey failed to win one out of 27 delegates in the Wisconsin balloting.

Dewey may recover some prestige in the Nebraska preferential primary next Tuesday, if he can then defeat Taft, Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and General Douglas MacArthur. Taft, himself, was not on the Wisconsin ballot.

Top GOP strategists insist Gov. Dewey's chances of winning the Republican nomination this year vanished with his Wisconsin defeat.

DEWEY'S DEFEAT yesterday paralleled that of Wendell Willkie in 1944. This probably keeps alive the Republican tradition that has always denied renomination to any defeated candidate for the presidency.

Finns Relieved By Signing Of Russian Pact

HELSINKI, April 7—The Finnish populace showed outward evidence of relief today that terms of the newly signed Russo-Finnish pact bars internal interference by the Soviets.

Opinion generally is that the treaty, signed last night in Moscow, appears to contain nothing which is likely to cancel out the promise of President Juho Paasikivi that the July elections will be free and Democratic.

The pact providing for mutual military assistance in event of an attack by Germany or any future German ally leaves the Finns free to dictate their own foreign policy.

Finlanders were particularly satisfied that there were no stipulations that Russia is to have permanent peacetime bases.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 7—Russia budged slightly on the Palestine boycott today by sending the Ukraine as "observer" to the closed Security Council meeting.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko continued to absent himself from the 11-nation group considering the United States plan for a temporary trusteeship at the American delegation mid-Manhattan offices.

Without previous notification, however, Vassili Tarassenko of the Ukraine appeared just before the meeting began and took a seat without comment.

Gromyko has informed the United States delegation that he will participate this afternoon in the Big Five talks on the United Nations membership applications.

THE APPLICATIONS to be discussed for Security Council action in the next few days are those of Italy, Trans-Jordan, Austria, Burma, together with those of Albania, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Finland and Outer Mongolia.

At the start of the Palestine meeting, U. S. Representative Warren R. Austin reviewed the 15-point scheme under which the UN trusteeship council would appoint a governor general to rule the Holy Land with a cabinet and legislature.

Stress was laid on the enforcement of trusteeship by military forces of specific powers to be designated later on either by the forthcoming special assembly or the trusteeship council.

Hopes for an effective truce between the Arabs and Jews on which to base the trusteeship scheme were slim as both factions balked at any cease fire commitment.

Educators Await Building Plan By Architect

Tentative general plans for the new Circleville public school building program are to be shown at the next meeting of the Circleville board of education, according to board members who met in their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Carl C. Leist, chairman of the board, said that F. F. Glass, Columbus architect, has been making a general layout of the proposed building, and would present the facts April 20.

Leist said the layout prepared by Glass would not be definite, but would provide a general basis on which a comprehensive plan could be formulated.

Other business at the Tuesday night meeting was the tentative approval of hiring a recreational director for the Ted Lewis Park this summer.

JOHN HEISKELL, chairman of the park board, gave the board a report of the activities of the director appointed last year by the board.

Heiskell said that 232 Circleville residents had been given a tour of the park.

Lewis Claims Back-To-Work Order Is Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON, April 7—John L. Lewis asked federal court today to set aside as unconstitutional the injunction ordering him to send his 400,000 striking coal miners back to work.

He charged that the temporary injunction issued last Saturday by Federal Judge Matthew F. McGuire violated the first, fifth, and 13th amendments to the Constitution.

Lewis, in his petition that the restraining order be vacated, likewise contended that the union had committed no act which justified issuance of an injunction.

The UMW chief also argued that the anti-strike order of the court violates the Taft-Hartley law which states that no court shall "issue any process to compel the performance by an individual employee of such labor or service, without his consent."

HE POINTED OUT that the union's contract with coal mine operators states that the agreement is effective only as long as the miners are "able and willing to work."

The Justice department said the UMW motion will have no effect on possible government plans to launch contempt proceedings against Lewis.

A spokesman emphasized that the department is watching all developments closely.

Lewis, in his petition demanding that Judge McGuire's order be set aside, contended that the miners left their jobs "individually and of their own volition."

He accused representatives of management of refusing to negotiate the pension issue which caused the strike.

The Lewis motion is expected to be argued before Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, the jurist who assessed huge fines against the UMW president and the union for contempt of court in the 1946 work stoppage.

Judge Goldsborough set the hearing for Monday.

Early Morning Fire Hits Barn

All six Circleville firemen and Chief Talmer Wise were summoned to duty at 3:40 a. m. Wednesday when a blaze in a barn was erroneously reported as a fire at Trinity Lutheran church.

However, when the firemen rushed to the scene it proved to be the barn of Mrs. E. J. Lilly, directly in back of the church, which was burning.

Two vehicles were parked in the barn, one a truck belonging to Blue Ribbon Dairy, which was seriously damaged by the blaze, and an auto. The latter was saved.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was undetermined, and amount of damage was unestimated.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise, on his return to the station, complained of "aching feet."

His men soon solved the mystery when they saw that the chief, in the excitement of dressing for the blaze, had slipped his tight pair of boots on the wrong feet.

Wise had fought the fire for the better part of an hour in the uncomfortable footwear without noticing the difference.

'Big Steel' Closing Down As Coal Strike Continues

PITTSBURGH, April 7—The nation's steel industry began to feel the full impact of the 24-day old soft coal strike today and began drastic production slashes.

Unemployment already has soared beyond the 135,000 mark in the steel industry, railroads and steel dependent firms. This figure is expected to mount to nearly a half million within the next week unless the coal strike ends.

Huge blast furnaces, bessemer converters and open hearth furnaces were being taken out of production throughout the steel industry, especially in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown-Cleveland district and in Chicago.

Coke ovens were down and others are expected to go unless the 400,000 miners return to the pits. Even roller mills were taken out of production.

UNLESS John L. Lewis, UMW chief, and coal operators can get together quickly on a pension program—the crux of the current work stoppage—steel production will sag to less than 50 percent of capacity by the end of the week.

"Big Steel" began cutting back production yesterday for the first time since the walkout began March 15. Carnegie-Illi-

Truman Seeking No. 2 Man For Recovery Job

WASHINGTON, April 7—President Truman is reported today to be looking for a man who can take over the $25,000 roving ambassadorial job under Foreign Aid Administrator Paul Hoffman.

The President's problem is that the administration wants to continue Lewis Douglas in his present post as U. S. ambassador to Great Britain.

Douglas originally had been considered a certainty for the job abroad of overseeing the manner in which United States aid is to be distributed and administered.

Lacking an outstanding man for this number two post in administration of European recovery, the President may be forced to appoint Douglas.

FIRST, HOWEVER, it is understood the chief executive desires to confer with Hoffman, head of the Studebaker Corp., whose nomination as director of the huge foreign aid program was confirmed quickly by the Senate Wednesday afternoon.

Lawmakers Laud Police For Hike In Meter Fund

Members of Circleville city council who for the last few months have been watching revenue from parking meters decline steadily had only praise for the police department Tuesday night when the financial report stated $1,286 had been collected in March.

Council became alarmed at February's report which listed only $749 collected from all the city's parking meters.

Ray Anderson said Police Chief "Bugs" McCrady "deserves a lot of credit" for the job he's done with enforcing the ordinance regulating meter collections.

Strict enforcement of the one-dollar penalty for violation was reflected in Mayor Thurman I. Miller's monthly report of fines collected.

His statement showed $229 was collected in fines and another $264 was received from other traffic violations.

Follette Jr. for reelection as senator.
This time he defeated Phil LaFollette again when he tried to ride back into power in Wisconsin politics on the MacArthur boom.
Stassen appeared today to have won at least 20 of Wisconsin's 27 delegates to the Republican national convention on the basis of return from 2,600 of the state's 3,138 precincts.

MacARTHUR is expected to come out of the presidential primary with the other seven delegates.
Dewey ran third from the start and never improved his position.
Stassen, who worked tirelessly in the industrial areas of Milwaukee and the farm and dairy sections of the west and north, rolled up a big out-state vote. It was enough to prevent MacArthur from making a runaway race of the Milwaukee area, where he admittedly is popular.
The former-governor of Minnesota did well himself in Milwaukee County, where about 25 percent of the state vote is concentrated.
Although Stassen's strong showing was a big surprise to many political experts, the poor performance of Dewey was even a bigger surprise.

Twice he had walked off with Wisconsin's delegates, in 1940 and 1944, and he did it without making an appearance in the state. Near the end of the present campaign he made a whirlwind two-day tour of Wisconsin. It apparently was too late to bolster his tottering political fences in the state.
ALL TOLD, Dewey still has the largest number of pledged delegates despite his defeat in the Wisconsin primary. His heavy edge stems from the support of 97 delegates from New York state, 90 of whom were elected yesterday.

Trucker Bound To Grand Jury

Patrick Smilie, 22, Jefferson, Wis., was bound to Pickaway County grand jury under $1,000 bond Tuesday night when brought before Magistrate H. O. Eveland accused of second degree manslaughter in the death of Herbert A. Wade, 19, Columbus, in a motorcycle-truck collision.

The defendant was remanded to the county jail in default of bond payment. Eveland said the Wisconsin man pleaded innocent to the accusation.

Wade died Monday morning a short time after the accident on State Route 23, three miles south of Circleville. Second degree manslaughter charges were filed by Sheriff Charles Radcliff.

Funeral services for young Wade will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in the O. R. Woodard funeral home, Columbus, with burial in Sunset cemetery, Columbus.

3 Indicted In Stock Probe

CANTON, April 7—Three men charged with violations of the Ohio Securities Act in connection with the sale of gas and oil well stocks were indicted late yesterday in Canton by the Stark County grand jury.

The indicted, Virgil H. Watson of Summerfield, and William White and I. A. Christman of Canton are accused of 15 illegal sales of stock involving an estimated $10,000.

The indictments charged the sales were made in Stark County while the wells are located in Noble and Monroe Counties.

Watson was named alone in nine of the indictments, and jointly with White in four and with Christman in two. Each indictment cited the men on counts of selling without a license and selling unregistered securities.

Conviction of each of the two counts carries a maximum punishment of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

THE BODY was asked by Councilman Ray Anderson to study the possibility of issuing licenses to tradesmen such as plumbers, carpenters to free them of paying parking meters charges.

Anderson pointed out other cities have followed this procedure. It would assist the tradesmen by letting them park their vehicles in front of homes or businesses where they are working without running out every hour to put a nickel in the slot, he said.

Fellow councilmen indicated they would take Anderson's suggestion under advisement.

Downpour Fails To Dampen Spirits Of Boy Scouts

The Greenbar Boy Scout troop of Stoutsville had a near wash-out at its camp site at Devil's Backbone the other evening after Scoutmaster Robert Christian hiked his troopers there for a bivouac.

Although heavy rains prevailed throughout the night, causing a sleeplessness under leaking tents, the entire troop reported having a good time when the boys returned home.

The camp was visited by Scoutmaster Warren Rinehart of Columbus and other Scouts in the area.

Troopers from Stoutsville included Dale Carr, Terry Rife, Mike Huddle, Bob Martin, Johnny Hill, Don Zeimer, Clyde Reichelderfer and John Spriggs.

Marine Planes Feared Lost

PEARL HARBOR, April 7—An air and sea rescue search over the Pacific off Hawaii failed to uncover any trace of the whereabouts of two U. S. Marine Corps planes that disappeared Monday night with four men aboard.

The twin-engine Grumman Tigercats vanished at 10:50 p. m. during a training flight to work out radar interception problems. Navy authorities expressed belief the two planes collided over the sea, some 28 miles southwest of the Barber's Point air station on Oahu Island.

Bonus Check Writing Nears

COLUMBUS, April 7—Four state veterans bonus check writers are being trained and four more are expected to be added later.

Adj. Gen. Chester W. Goble, bonus director, said today he hopes to start writing the first checks by the end of this month.

John L. Lewis asked them to do so, until the pension plan is forthcoming.

At the same time, one high official of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who declined use of his name, said:

"I think the miners will be back at work before the end of the week. I believe Lewis precipitated this strike just to deplete coal reserves so that he would have more leverage when negotiations for a new contract start next month." The present contract expires June 1.

ment as foreign aid administrator, Hoffman said:

"I think this may be an opportunity to put up a fight for peace, and that is the way I look at it. I think there is a chance through this program for us to achieve peace in the world."

Hoffman said there is a reasonable possibility of an increase of about one-third in European production—both industrial and agricultural over a four-year period.

Hoffman would not give a direct reply when asked if American economic assistance to Europe should be backed up with military aid.

The new appointee said that the United States cannot save Western Europe but can help that area to save itself. He emphasized that one of the principles of the Marshall Plan is self-help and mutual help by the European countries.

Lonero Trial Set For Monday

Pickaway County is scheduled Monday for its first petit jury trial of the present term when Joseph "Smiley" Lonero, 37, will be brought before Judge William D. Radcliff in common pleas court for allegedly receiving and concealing stolen goods.

Lonero was apprehended in Sherman, Tex., after he reportedly left town with $300 which the county says he obtained from Robert Moses while Moses was confined to the county jail last April.

Moses later was convicted of armed robbery, auto larceny, and threatening to kill and was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in the Mansfield reformatory.

Firemen Payless During Dispute

WARREN, April 7—Warren firemen were still without pay today as the battle between the Civil Service Commission and Service Safety Director Walter Pestrak continued.

In hearings yesterday City Solicitor Mark J. Williams asked that an out-of-town judge be assigned to hear suits brought by Norman H. Mullett and Jack W. Thompson seeking to force Pestrak to restore them to their jobs in the fire department.

Williams accused Common Pleas Judge G. H. Birell of having bias either for or against the commission.

Thompson and Mullett, released from their jobs in the fire department at the end of their 90-day probationary periods, have contended that their dismissal was illegal.

Stassen Top Runner

Follette Jr. for reelection as senator.

This time he defeated Phil LaFollette again when he tried to ride back into power in Wisconsin politics on the MacArthur boom.

Stassen appeared today to have won at least 20 of Wisconsin's 27 delegates to the Republican national convention on the basis of return from 2,600 of the state's 3,138 precincts.

MacARTHUR is expected to come out of the presidential primary with the other seven delegates.

Dewey ran third from the start and never improved his position.

Stassen, who worked tirelessly in the industrial areas of Milwaukee and the farm and dairy sections of the west and north, rolled up a big out-state vote. It was enough to prevent MacArthur from making a runaway race of the Milwaukee area, where he admittedly is popular.

The former governor of Minnesota did well himself in Milwaukee County, where about 25 percent of the state vote is concentrated.

Although Stassen's strong showing was a big surprise to many political experts, the poor performance of Dewey was even a bigger surprise.

Twice he had walked off with Wisconsin's delegates, in 1940 and 1944, and he did it without making an appearance in the state. Near the end of the present campaign he made a whirlwind two-day tour of Wisconsin. It apparently was too late to bolster his tottering political fences in the state.

ALL TOLD, Dewey still has the largest number of pledged delegates despite his defeat in the Wisconsin primary. His heavy edge stems from the support of 97 delegates from New York state, 90 of whom were elected yesterday.

The 46-year-old New York governor has an opportunity to snap back in the Nebraska primary which will be held next Tuesday. But he will be in some fast company. Seven GOP presidential possibilities are entered in the Nebraska race, one of them being Taft.

Cancer Prevention Alertness Urged

In far too many cases of cancer, there are only "the quick and the dead," Clarence Rushing, Pickaway County American Cancer Society campaign chairman, warned Wednesday.

Rushing is heading the county's effort to add $2,000 during April to the national group's funds for the study and prevention of the dreaded disease.

For those quick to seek diagnosis and treatment, medical science can provide successful treatment. Advanced diagnostic techniques, radical surgery undreamed of a generation ago, powerful x-ray machines and new methods of radiation therapy can conquer early cancer.

For the lagards—who pay no heed to the unhealing sore, the painless lump, irregular bleeding or discharge from body openings, the progressive change in warts and moles, persistent indigestion, unexplained coughs and hoarseness or changes in bowel habits—treatment is difficult.

PERIODIC check-ups by one's own physician are a safeguard against all disease—particularly cancer. Physicians without facilities to diagnose cancer will refer suspicious symptoms to diagnostic experts.

More than 180 cancer "detection centers" have been opened throughout the United States in recent years. Staffed by specialists, they are for the use of ostensibly well people who wish to check regularly for the painless and frequently hidden symptoms.

Although detection centers have mushroomed since 1938 when the first was established—in the last two years the number has increased 700 percent—many of them already are overloaded; and as new patrons apply for free or low-cost examinations, the need for still more centers becomes increasingly acute.

Supported in most instances by the dimes and dollars contributed to the American Cancer Society, these popular centers are set up in both rural and metropolitan areas. New York City has 17. Kentucky has 15. Throughout the country, examination charges vary from nothing up to about $10. In almost all cases, however, the examination is thorough; and frequently incipient disease other than cancer is detected.

Besides the detection centers—which are exclusively for well people—about 407 cancer clinics are now in operation throughout the United States. The clinics afford diagnostic services and treatment by many outstanding specialists. It is conservatively estimated that three times the present number of clinics are needed.

Amusement Tax Gives City $724 In 2 Months

In the two-month period beginning Jan. 1, the Circleville city till has been increased $724.28 as a result of council's passage of the three percent amusement tax.

City Auditor Lillian M. Young said $329.64 was collected in January and $394.64 was received in February. The final March tabulations will not be complete until the 25th of this month.

The city official stated the sharp increase in February over January was largely accounted for by revenue taken from Pickaway County's Class B basketball tournament, part of which will be reflected in the March figure.

NEW PALESTINE STUDY

WHEN the United Nations General Assembly meets in special session April 16 to reconsider the Palestine question it will be just about back where it was when the question was first presented. The delegates will be somewhat wiser—and sadder—than they were last fall.

The United States will recommend a temporary trusteeship for Palestine. The proposal will not be popular, except perhaps among the Arabs, but from the American viewpoint there is no other workable plan to suggest at this time. Of practical necessity the United States must consider the Palestine question as subordinate to the much larger and more dangerous problems of Europe. American attention and energies must be centered on Europe until there is marked improvement of the political and economic situation there.

The United Nations Organization is admittedly in an embarrassing position. But it can gracefully withdraw from immediate partition of Palestine on the ground that the peace of the world would not be served by pursuing a course which apparently would lead to increased violence in the Holy Land at a time when the United Nations has no military forces with which to maintain order. Such military forces cannot be gathered and put in functioning overnight.

Because of the experience with Palestine as well as for other problems which the United Nations now has or may face in the future, the most earnest consideration should be given to the formation of a military force, a true international force, not a mere combined force made up of units or troops supplied by member nations. Such a force is vital to the future of the United Nations.

MIDGETS IN RADIO

INDIVIDUAL radio communications by means of equipment small enough to be carried in a pocket or a handbag is not so far away as might be thought. At a recent meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers the National Bureau of Standards showed midget transmitters small enough to fit into a lipstick container or to be worn on the wrist, like a watch.

The "walkie-talkie" radio gained fame in the last war, but the Bureau of Standards has refined it. The result is a little set no bigger than a cigaret case, christened "walkie-no-back-talkie." The user can talk to a distant contact point through the little transmitter, but there is no receiver so the distant listener can't talk back.

It should be just the thing for a husband who can never get the last word.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Dr. Eduard Benes, prisoner-president of enslaved Czechoslovakia, has written his memoirs (Pameti) published in Prague. In this—I quote "The Central European Observer"—he tells of the efforts made in 1939 to get him to leave Western Europe and to take refuge in Soviet Russia.

The efforts continued even after the Stalin-Hitler alliance, even after the Russians had marched into Poland and Eastern Galicia. He recounts a conversation with a leading Czech Communist:

"My talk with Sverma (Czech Communist) made me realize what a great difference there was between the attitude of our Communists, under the influence of the Russian Communists, towards the further development of the war, and my own attitude towards it. We both believed that, although the Soviet Union had signed an agreement with Germany, it would enter the war. The Communists, however, apparently considered that this would not be possible until the war was nearly over, and it was with this very object in view that the Soviet Union had signed the Agreement, so as to gain time for itself. They also seemed to think that it would intervene with a mainly or exclusively revolutionary purpose at the moment when both sides were so exhausted that they would not be strong enough to ward off the social revolution. At this moment, too, they imagined that in any case they would succeed in internally revolutionizing Germany also."

This view was very generally held in 1939 and 1940, namely, that Soviet Russia would ultimately stab Germany in the back, but not until the Western powers were so weak that they too would crumble. Then Soviet Russia would be the master of Europe. Ulrich von Hassell, former German ambassador to Italy, who was killed by Hitler for conspiring to bring about a revolution in Germany during the war and who nearly succeeded, in his "The Von Hassell Diaries," published in this country, confirmed Benes's view. He wrote on Aug. 26, 1939:

"It is clear to me that the Russians made the pact with us in the same spirit in which they dragged out the negotiations with the Western Powers. That is to encourage us and to set all nations of Europe against one another."

It was during this period that Communists throughout the world showed their enmity to the United States. Even in this country the Communists used the slogan, "The Yanks Are Not Coming," and they picketed the White House and booed President Roosevelt.

As one reads all this, it is impossible not to wonder what documents are filed in the archives of our State department. For what a roving revolutionist inside Germany, Von Hassell, and the refugee president of an occupied country, Benes, could know our State department and our President must have known. Yet, when Stalin was ready to enter the war, the American people were deceived both as to the nature of the Stalin-Hitler alliance and its breach.

We were lied to and we paid for it in lives and wealth. We are still paying.

As for Communism, it's getting too common for comfort.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

Kit was still standing outside the door when Gibson came up for Tracy's baggage and Tracy came out of her room wearing dark clothes and a short silver fox jacket.

Kit said, "Let me go with you. I'll go anywhere."

"This is a one-woman journey, Kit. I don't know where it's going to take me and I don't care. If it's my last thing, I want to make it a good one. Keep the home fires burning, darling. I'm going to burn a big fire of my own."

Kit stood on the stairs and watched her go. When the car moved away, she hurried to her room and called Mike at his office. If anyone could stop Tracy from doing something foolish, it was Mike.

"Kit," he asked, recognizing her voice, "I was about to shove off. I'm glad you found me."

"Kit's words rushed breathlessly. Tracy has left, Mike. A few minutes ago, I don't know where she's going. I tried to stop her."

"But why?" "Kirk came over today to say good-bye. Mike, Kirk and I are going to be married. I wanted to tell Tracy but I couldn't. Not yet. I wanted to find a way to make it easier. I haven't found that way. Kirk's work here is finished and he's going back to get his affairs straightened out so that we can be married."

Mike said, "Hold on..." He chuckled. "That's swell, Kit. Aren't you glad you didn't take up my proposition now?"

"I'm terribly happy about Kirk and me but I'm not happy about Tracy."

He took a deep breath. "Yes," he said seriously. "You might well not be happy about her. No telling what she'll do. She's under the doctor's care. She can't take chances. I'll see if I can find her. See what I can do, Kit..."

"You'll keep in touch with me? I won't leave..."

"You'll hear from me. This is a tough assignment. Okay, Kit."

"Thank you, Mike."

She lingered by the phone, wondering if she should call Kirk, wondering if he'd left. But it seemed both unwise and futile to detain him and it would involve an explanation Tracy would not want her to make. If anyone could handle this situation it was Mike.

The afternoon lingered while she stayed close to the telephone that did not ring. Later she went down to dinner, noticing that while she had been too disturbed to dress, Anita had dressed as carefully as if she were going to a party. But there was a worried little wrinkle between Anita's carefully arched brows.

"I hope Tracy doesn't do anything foolish," she said. "She knew Kirk would leave sooner or later."

Kit said, "But you are never prepared for a moment like this. You hope for miracles..."

"Of course he's terribly attractive and all that. I knew Tracy was crazy about him but not crazy enough to lose her head. And anyone could have seen this summer that he wasn't in love with her."

Kit said, "Maybe she hasn't lost her head. Maybe she knows what she's doing and where she's going. I hope so."

She lingered by the phone until late that night, thinking of Kirk in Baltimore, thinking of Mike in New York trying to find Tracy. When the phone rang, she reached for it, hoping that it would be Kirk but hoping still more that it would be Mike.

"Kit?" Mike asked over the telephone. He sounded tired.

"Yes, Mike. Have you found her?"

"Not yet but I have a clue. Has Cecil brought the car back?"

"I don't know. I didn't check. It was stupid. I will at once..."

"It isn't important. I can't talk much, Kit. I don't want this to get out. I'm leaving town for a few days. You haven't talked to Kirk, have you?"

"No. He doesn't know anything about it."

"Just as well. Don't tell him. Maybe we can settle this without his knowing." He chuckled. "Kit, if you and he don't live happily ever after, then the rest of us don't have much of a chance. You poor kid..."

"It can't be until this with Tracy is settled, Mike. You'll keep in touch with me?"

"Sure. And don't let dear Anita get your goat. It would be capital punishment for me to have to live alone with her for a few days."

When Mike rang off, she called Cecil and Cecil answered sleepily. "This is Miss Marshall, Cecil. Where did you leave Miss Field?"

upon the advice of older folk.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Make no mistake, this is a hard city and a cold one, and when people tell you that it is a city of warmth that holds out its arms in welcome, laugh at them.

However, the sun sometimes can melt the hardest ice, and that is what happened here a few nights ago. I am not quite sure it was the kindness of Manhattan's heart that was responsible. It could have been sheer perversity.

This is a town where the inmates flare up when asked to do the usual. They rebel from the routine and they dread the rut. They often do something just because everyone else will do the opposite.

The other night, a scholarly, bespectacled little man named Ernest Anderson, who in the last few years has acquired a reputation as an entrepreneur and impresario, presented a concert at Carnegie Hall.

The time was 11:30 p. m. in an hour at which the night owls are heading for the midnight show at the Copa and the more sedentary souls are making their way home to bed. The artist was Billie Holiday.

Ten days before the concert, the dusky Billie was released from a southern jail. She had spent the better part of a year there, after having been arrested in Philadelphia following a hair-raising, gun-shooting chase.

The charge was the use of narcotics. It broke the hearts of a lot of blues-music fans, because Miss Holiday was the high priestess of them all. She used to sing in the 52nd street spots, on the nights when she felt like it.

Nelly Fisher

AS I SAY, I AM NOT QUITE SURE why they did it—this is a town, too, where curiosity brings out the citizens en masse, or the wish to make a gesture, the way those casual acquaintances of

Mark Hellinger did in attending the recent preview of his valedictory movie and crying their heads off—but they filled every one of Carnegie's 2,760 seats... and 300 more onstage.

They made Billie sing 17 songs. Anderson, somewhat stunned, immediately scheduled another Holiday concert for April 17.

It reminded me of something that happened five, six years back. Tommy Dorsey's band was opening at the Capitol theater, in one of those stage-show presentations, and even before the last scenes of the movie were over, the band began rising into dim view from the darkened, rising orchestra pit.

There was a little man with tousled hair sitting behind the battery of drums—and the minute the audience saw his silhouette there in the darkness, it went wild. The speeches in the last part of the movie never were heard.

The crowd went loudly nuts when the lights finally went up and the band swung into "Getting Sentimental Over You." The little man behind the drums was Gene Krupa, who was just out of the hatch after doing three months or so on a narcotic charge. You would have thought it was a hero coming home from the wars.

The sun sometimes melts the ice, even the hardest ice.

LUNCHING THE OTHER DAY AT THE DUBONNET with Billy Skipper, the juvenile dancing-singing lead in "Anne Get Your Gun" and beautiful, red-haired Nelly Fisher, the ballerina of "Make Mine Manhattan." I happened to mention how the movies John Dail had been reminiscing fondly to me of his struggling days in the theater.

Billy grinned and said he felt the same nostalgic way, now that he had reached the point where he could pay the rent, but Nelly was somewhat cynical.

"I suppose in one way it was fun and adventurous, trying to make ends meet," she said, "but to tell the truth, it got awfully monotonous after awhile. I mean, how quaint can life get?"

"I think I've had enough struggling to last me for a while. I used to make $35 a week in the corps de ballet at Radio City's Music Hall. That had to stretch a long way. I wouldn't want it back again."

Of course, Nelly's life in those days might have been enlivened if she had a job like Billy's. To keep body and soul together, this Mobile, Ala., boy took a position delivering photos for Marcus Blechman, the famed photographer.

Billy remembers how he brought a batch of prints to Martha Eggerth, the opera star, only to be greeted by a storm of protests and the final, imperious command to "Now go." A couple of days later Billy got his first dancing job in a musical comedy—starring Martha Eggerth.

"Darling!" she cried on seeing him, "how wonderful you are to be in this show!" Then they both had a huge laugh and Billy decided privately that he was in a very interesting profession.

NEW PALESTINE STUDY

WHEN the United Nations General Assembly meets in special session April 16 to reconsider the Palestine question it will be just about back where it was when the question was first presented. The delegates will be somewhat wiser—and sadder—than they were last fall.

The United States will recommend a temporary trusteeship for Palestine. The proposal will not be popular, except perhaps among the Arabs, but from the American viewpoint there is no other workable plan to suggest at this time. Of practical necessity the United States must consider the Palestine question as subordinate to the much larger and more dangerous problems of Europe. American attention and energies must be centered on Europe until there is marked improvement of the political and economic situation there.

The United Nations Organization is admittedly in an embarrassing position. But it can gracefully withdraw from immediate partition of Palestine on the ground that the peace of the world would not be served by pursuing a course which apparently would lead to increased violence in the Holy Land at a time when the United Nations has no military forces with which to maintain order. Such military forces cannot be gathered and put in functioning overnight.

Because of the experience with Palestine as well as for other problems which the United Nations now has or may face in the future, the most earnest consideration should be given to the formation of a military force, a true international force, not a mere combined force made up of units or troops supplied by member nations. Such a force is vital to the future of the United Nations.

MIDGETS IN RADIO

INDIVIDUAL radio communications by means of equipment small enough to be carried in a pocket or a handbag is not so far away as might be thought. At a recent meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers the National Bureau of Standards showed midget transmitters small enough to fit into a lipstick container or to be worn on the wrist, like a watch.

The "walkie-talkie" radio gained fame in the last war, but the Bureau of Standards has refined it. The result is a little set no bigger than a cigaret case, christened "walkie-no-back-talkie." The user can talk to a distant contact point through the little transmitter, but there is no receiver so the distant listener can't talk back.

It should be just the thing for a husband who can never get the last word.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Dr. Eduard Benes, prisoner-president of enslaved Czechoslovakia, has written his memoirs (Pameti) published in Prague. In this—I quote "The Central European Observer"—he tells of the efforts made in 1939 to get him to leave Western Europe and to take refuge in Soviet Russia.

The efforts continued even after the Stalin-Hitler alliance, even after the Russians had marched into Poland and Eastern Galicia. He recounts a conversation with a leading Czech Communist:

"My talk with Sverma (Czech Communist) made me realize what a great difference there was between the attitude of our Communists, under the influence of the Russian Communists, towards the further development of the war, and my own attitude towards it. We both believed that, although the Soviet Union had signed an agreement with Germany, it would enter the war. The Communists, however, apparently considered that this would not be possible until the war was nearly over, and it was with this very object in view that the Soviet Union had signed the Agreement, so as to gain time for itself. They also seemed to think that it would intervene with a mainly or exclusively revolutionary purpose at the moment when both sides were so exhausted that they would not be strong enough to ward off the social revolution. At this moment, too, they imagined that in any case they would succeed in internally revolutionizing Germany also."

This view was very generally held in 1939 and 1940, namely, that Soviet Russia would ultimately stab Germany in the back, but not until the Western powers were so weak that they would crumble. Then Soviet Russia would be the master of Europe. Ulrich von Hassell, former German ambassador to Italy, who was killed by Hitler for conspiring to bring about a revolution in Germany during the war and who nearly succeeded, in his "The Von Hassell Diaries," published in this country, confirmed Benes' view. He wrote on Aug. 26, 1939:

"It is clear to me that the Russians made the pact with us in the same spirit in which they dragged out the negotiations with the Western Powers. That is to encourage us and to set all nations of Europe against one another."

It was during this period that Communists throughout the world showed their enmity to the United States. Even in this country the Communists used the slogan, "The Yanks Are Not Coming," and they picketed the White House and booed President Roosevelt.

As one reads all this, it is impossible not to wonder what documents are filed in the archives of our State department. For what a roving revolutionist inside Germany, Von Hassell, and the refugee president of an occupied country, Benes, could know our State department and our President must have known. Yet, when Stalin was ready to enter the war, the American people were deceived both as to the nature of the Stalin-Hitler alliance and its breach.

We were lied to and we paid for it in lives and wealth. We are still paying.

As for Communism, it's getting too common for comfort.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

KIT was still standing outside the door when Gibson came up for Tracy's baggage and Tracy came out of her room wearing dark clothes and a short silver fox jacket.

Kit said, "Let me go with you. I'll go anywhere."

"This is a one-way journey, Kit. I don't know where it's going to take me and I don't care. If it's my last fling, I want to make it a good one. Keep the home fires burning, darling. I'm going to burn a big fire of my own."

Kit stood on the stairs and watched her go. When the car moved away, she hurried to her room and called Mike at his office. If anyone could stop Tracy from doing something foolish, it was Mike.

"Mike," he asked, recognizing her voice. "I was about to shove off. I'm glad you found me. . . ."

Kit's words rushed breathlessly. "Tracy has left, Mike. A few minutes ago. I don't know where she's going. I tried to stop her. . . ."

"But why?"

"Kirk came over today to say good-bye. Mike, Kirk and I are going to be married. I wanted to tell Tracy but I couldn't. Not yet. I wanted to find a way to make it easier. I haven't found that way. Kirk's work here is finished and he's gone back to get his affairs straightened out so that we can be married. . . ."

Mike said, "Hold on. . . . Aren't you glad you didn't take up my proposition?"

"I'm terribly happy about Kirk and me but I'm not happy about Tracy. . . ."

He took a deep breath. "Yes," he said seriously. "You might well not be happy about her. No telling what she'll do. She's under the doctor's care. She can't take chances. I'll see if I can find her. See what I can do, Kit. . . ."

"You'll keep in touch with me? I won't leave. . . ."

"You'll hear from me. This is a tough assignment. Okay, Kit."

"Thank you, Mike."

She lingered by the phone, wondering if she should call Kirk, wondering if he'd left. But it seemed both unwise and futile to detain him and it would involve an explanation Tracy would not want her to make. If anyone could handle this situation it was Mike.

The afternoon lingered while she stayed close to the telephone that did not ring. Later she went down to dinner, noticing that while she had been too disturbed to dress, Anita had dressed as carefully as if she were going to a party. But there was a worried little wrinkle between Anita's carefully arched brows.

"I hope Tracy doesn't do anything foolish," she said. "She knew Kirk would leave sooner or later."

Kit said, "But you are never prepared for a moment like this. You hope for miracles of fate."

"Of course he's terribly attractive and all that. I knew Tracy was crazy about him but not crazy enough to lose her head. And anyone could have seen this summer that he wasn't in love with her."

Kit said, "Maybe she hasn't lost her head. Maybe she knows what she's doing and where she's going. I hope so."

She lingered by the phone until late that night, thinking of Kirk in Baltimore, thinking of Mike in New York trying to find Tracy. When the phone rang, she reached for it, hoping that it would be Kirk but hoping still more that it would be Mike. . . .

"Kit?" Mike asked over the telephone. He sounded tired.

"Yes, Mike. Have you found her?"

"Not yet but I have a clue. Has Cecil brought the car back?"

"I don't know. I didn't check. It was stupid. I will at once. . . ."

"It isn't important. I can't talk much, Kit. I don't want this to get out. I'm leaving town for a few days. You haven't talked to Kirk, have you?"

"No. He doesn't know anything about it."

"Just as well. Don't tell him. Maybe we can settle this without his knowing," he chuckled. "Kit, if you and I don't live happily ever after, then the rest of us don't have much of a chance. You poor kid. . . . Just when everything is swell for you. . . ."

"It can't be until this with Tracy is settled, Mike. You'll keep in touch with me?"

"Sure. And don't let dear Anita get your goat. It would be capital punishment for me to have to live alone with her for a few days."

When Mike rang off, she called Cecil and Cecil answered sleepily.

"This is Miss Marshall, Cecil. Where did you leave Miss Field?"

When she didn't feel too contemptuous of her audience and if it pleased her fancy, she would slide out on the floor of some smoky little dump, stand in the spotlight, throw back her classic head with the gaudy white flower in her hair and sing the blues. Like nobody before or after.

AS I SAY, I AM NOT QUITE SURE why they did it—this is a town, too, where curiosity brings out the citizens en masse, or the wish to make a gesture, the way those casual acquaintances, of

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran Elected President Of Conservation League

Memorial Hall Site Of Meet

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran was elected president of the Child Conservation League during a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the trustee's room of Memorial hall.

Other officers chosen for 1948-49 were Mrs. Robert Adkins, vice-president, Mrs. Paul C. Rutzahn, secretary, and Mrs. Collis Young, treasurer.

Mrs. Ned Griner was selected as program chairman. Assisting her will be Mrs. Lincoln S. Mader, Mrs. Virgil Cress and Mrs. Joseph Bell. Mrs. Joseph Adkins served as chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. John W. Eshelman presided in the absence of the retiring president, Mrs. H. B. Given. Reports were submitted by Mrs. Rutzahn, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Griner.

Contributions were voted for the benefit of Pickaway County chapter, Red Cross, American Cancer Fund, Boy Scouts and the Kindergarten Association.

Following the business hour, Mrs. Frank Sussa presented Mrs. M. B. Kellstadt with guest speaker.

Mrs. Kellstadt selected for her topic, "I Can Leave My Child But One Gift—What Shall It Be?" She said "love for fellow-men—brotherhood, or goodwill, whatever you may choose to call it is the most precious possession of mankind."

She continued by informing the group "the ability to feel kin to others, to share pleasures, and responsibilities, to find and keep friends, despite seeming differences of race or nationality is by far the most important for the happiness of the individual."

"In her natural position as caretaker of the home," Mrs. Kellstadt said "it falls to the mother's lot to instill and develop the friendly cooperative spirit in her children, to make brother and sister share with one another, and with playmates outside the home. Brotherhood, the greatest of gifts, is the basis of all society."

Chillicothe Church Scene Of Wedding

Mrs. Robert Good, of Town street, attended her sister, Edna Mae Butcher, as maid of honor when Miss Butcher repeated nuptial vows with Robert Lee Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vorhis Rowland of Chillicothe.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Butcher of Adelphi.

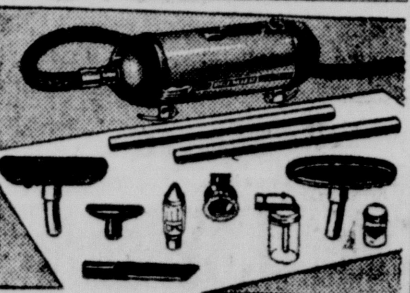

The Rev. Harold B. Weir read the double ring ceremony March 28, in First Presbyterian church, Chillicothe.

Richard Rowland was best man for his brother, James Saylor of Chillicothe seated the guests.

After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home on South Paint street.

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran Elected President Of Conservation League

Memorial Hall Site Of Meet

Mrs. Norbert L. Cochran was elected president of the Child Conservation League during a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the trustee's room of Memorial hall.

Other officers chosen for 1948-49 were Mrs. Robert Adkins, vice-president, Mrs. Paul C. Routhahn, secretary, and Mrs. Collis Young, treasurer.

Mrs. Ned Griner was selected as program chairman. Assisting her will be Mrs. Lincoln S. Mader, Mrs. Virgil Cress and Mrs. Joseph Bell. Mrs. Joseph Adkins served as chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. John W. Eshelman presided in the absence of the retiring president, Mrs. H. B. Given. Reports were submitted by Mrs. Routhahn, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Griner.

Contributions were voted for the benefit of Pickaway County chapter, Red Cross, American Cancer Fund, Boy Scouts and the Kindergarten Association.

Following the business hour, Mrs. Frank Susa presented Mrs. M. B. Kellstadt who was guest speaker.

Mrs. Kellstadt selected for her topic, "I Can Leave My Child But One Gift—What Shall It Be?" She said "love for fellow-men—brotherhood, or goodwill, whatever you may choose to call it is the most precious possession of mankind."

She continued by informing the group "the ability to feel kin to others, to share pleasures, and responsibilities, to find and keep friends, despite seeming differences of race or nationality is by far the most important for the happiness of the individual."

"In her natural position as caretaker of the home," Mrs. Kellstadt said "it falls to the mother's lot to instill and develop the friendly cooperative spirit in her children, to make brother and sister share with one another, and with playmates outside the home. Brotherhood, the greatest of gifts, is the basis of all society."

Chillicothe Church Scene Of Wedding

Mrs. Robert Good, of Town street, attended her sister, Edna Mae Butcher, as maid of honor when Miss Butcher repeated nuptial vows with Robert Lee Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vorhis Rowland of Chillicothe.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Butcher of Adelphi.

The Rev. Harold B. Weir read the double ring ceremony March 28, in First Presbyterian church, Chillicothe.

Richard Rowland was best man for his brother, James Saylor of Chillicothe seated the guests.

After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home on South Paint street.

Social Evening And Installation Mark Elks' Meet

One hundred fifty Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks members and their ladies were entertained Tuesday evening in the lodge home by the "Lamp-lighters" a 15-voice choral group from Columbus.

At 10 p. m. a buffet lunch, was served by Jimmie Carpenter and his crew of helpers. Dancing followed in the lodge room to music by Dick Heine's orchestra.

Don D. Henkle was installed as exalted ruler of the local organization replacing William D. Radcliff.

Ferd M. Pickens, past exalted ruler now residing in Columbus, served as master of ceremonies at installation services. He was assisted by a delegation of Columbus Elks for the rites.

Officers installed in addition to Henkle were William Goodenough, esteemed leading knight; Edwin Plum, esteemed loyal knight; David Goldschmidt, esteemed lecturing knight; Leland Pontius, secretary; Robert Rader, treasurer; Robert Shadley, tiler, and John Boggs, trustee for a five-year term.

The new exalted ruler appointed George K. Fishpaw, esquire; Barton R. Deming, chaplain; George D. Young, inner guard, and Carl C. Palm, organist.

A class of approximately 20 candidates will be initiated at a meeting of the lodge May 4.

Meet Postponed

The meeting booked to be held by members of Past Presidents Club of Daughters of Union Veterans in the home of the Misses Laura and Emma Mader, 309 East Franklin street, has been postponed until April 16.

da high school and served four years in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

The new couple is making their home in Dayton where the bridegroom is employed.

COLUMBUS LADY LOSES 40 LBS. WITH THIS HOME RECIPE

Mrs. R. Flood, 615 Edward St., loses weight without dieting.

"Before I started taking Rennel I weighed over 200 pounds and was very uncomfortable. I have not followed a diet. I have eaten whatever I wanted to yet Rennel has helped me to lose 40 pounds. My friends are all talking about how much weight I have lost. I am going to continue taking Rennel until I have regained my normal weight."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomforts of being overweight. Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your drug store and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle, then take just two

Local Jeweler Addresses Class

Joseph W. Burns, local jeweler and member of the American Gem Society, was guest speaker when members of Westminster Bible Class of the Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Walter Downing, North Scioto street.

"Gems and Gemology" was the topic discussed by Burns. He told his listeners of the romance and history concerning gems. He displayed many crystals to illustrate his address.

Mrs. G. I. Nickerson presided for a business session following the program. Plans for the annual Mother's Day meeting in May was discussed. Mrs. W. C. Watson and Mrs. Downing were named to be responsible for the decorations.

The program is to be arranged by Mrs. Donald E. Mitchell, Miss Mary Heffner, Mrs. Beryl Stevenson and Mrs. S. M. Cryder. Hospitality committee will be composed of Mrs. Loring Evans, Mrs. Charles Smith, Miss Winifred Parrett, Miss Ethel Kiger, Miss Alda Bartley and Mrs. Nora Gilliland.

Devotionals were led by Miss Edith Haswell. Mrs. Mitchell spoke briefly of the new curriculum for the Sunday school.

Sixteen members and guests were served refreshments by Mrs. Downing, assisted by Mrs. Nickerson, Miss Haswell and Mrs. Leslie May.

Magician Entertains

Logan Elm Grange members were entertained during their meeting Tuesday evening in Pickaway township school building by Paul Hubbard, member of the Mills Brothers Circus, who spent the winter months at Pickaway County Fairgrounds. Feats of magic were performed by Hubbard.

Slated by Grangers for their first meeting in May will be a box social and a contest for makers of homemade bread.

Miss Strawser Is Bride Of Curtis Keller

Morris Chapel was the setting for the marriage of Miss Mildred Strawser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Strawser of Circleville Route 4, and Curtis Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Keller of Williamsport.

The Rev. Carl Butterbaugh read the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p. m. Friday in the presence of members of the immediate families.

The bride was attired in a poudre-blue dress with accessories of black and white. At her shoulder was pinned a corsage of American beauty rose buds.

Miss Maxine Strawser attended her sister in a gray tailored suit with a corsage of deep pink carnations.

Ned E. Dresbach, of South Pickaway street, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Strawser were hosts in their home for a wedding dinner.

The new Mrs. Keller attended Washington Township high school and Keller attended Atlanta high school. He now is employed in Columbus.

Meeting Booked

Members of Washington Grange will take a covered dish, individual table service and sandwiches to the meeting Friday evening in Washington Township school building. The meal will be served following a program arranged by Miss Ethel Brobst and Miss Martha Bolender at 7:30 p. m.

Medical Test Proved This Great To Relieve MONTHLY FEMALE PAINS

Are you troubled by distress of female functional monthly disturbances? Does this make you suffer from pain, feel so nervous, weak, high-strung—at such times? Then try Lydia E. Funk Store Celebrating 26th Year

Groceryman Sees Many Changes

Wilbur L. Funk, owner of the Funk grocery on West Main street, celebrated his 26th year in the grocery business Wednesday.

A story from Funk shows how "a little hard work and resourcefulness can develop a small business into a successful large scale operation."

Starting back in 1922 with a small store on the corner of Pickaway and Watt streets, Funk has changed locations twice and the style of his business once, both, he said, to benefit the Circleville housewife looking for bargains and shopping ease. The store is one of the oldest groceries in Circleville.

The first change in location came in 1924, along with the change in selling, when Funk moved his business to the South side of West Main street, opening one of the first self-serve markets in Central Ohio and the only super-market in Circleville at the time.

THE LAST change in location came in 1932, when the store was moved almost directly across the street from its previous location, the service re-

Only One Countian Has Earned Badge Of State Highway Patrol

Pickaway County's native representation on the Ohio State Highway Patrol is limited to a single man.

He is Patrolman Harry A. Hurst, native of the Williamsport area and son of Mrs. Olive Hurst of that community. He is now stationed at the Hebron barracks.

Officials of the patrol said Wednesday efforts are being made to interest more Pickaway countians in the highway duty in conjunction with the opening of the next training school scheduled to convene in June.

Patrolman C. E. Wells, who is stationed in Circleville, is to interview young men of this area in the Circleville police department beginning at 8 p. m. Wednesday.

SUCCESSFUL applicants will be required to pass a screening process, written examination, character examination. Those successful will be appointed as patrolmen at the end of the training period.

The state outfit now has about 80 vacancies and officials are attempting to bring up the organization to its authorized strength of 400 men this Summer.

Wells emphasized that the state furnished patrolmen with uniforms and equipment in addition to the full salary.

The Navy has sold a total of 419 combatant vessels for scrap or for conversion to peacetime pursuits.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any drugstore.

Robert, spokesman of the three, said Wednesday that as long as the business had been established there had never been a change of hands, the business all done by the father or his sons.

When asked what his father thought of the proposal of a new system of selling groceries much in the style of an automat, Robert said, "Dad likes the personal contact. If the new style proves more efficient and of more benefit to the customer, however, I'm sure we will be one of the first to change over."

Leveling Off Of Prices Fails To Hurt Ohioans

COLUMBUS, April 7 — The leveling off of commodity market prices in recent weeks hasn't yet affected prices received by the Ohio farmer, who still sells his produce at prices higher on the average than he received a year ago.

The Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting Service said today that the general level of farm prices increased slightly during the month ended March 15 and was "somewhat higher" than a year ago.

All principal grain prices were higher on March 15 except rye, which remained the same. Wheat increased eight cents, oats 19 cents, corn 24 cents, and soybeans 34 cents.

Meat animal prices were up

$2.60 for beef cattle, while sheep prices remained the same and hog, veal, calf and lamb prices declined 10, 20, and 40 cents, respectively.

Butterfat and milk sold at wholesale were down, chickens were up, and eggs decreased in the month. Wool, hay and apples also decreased in price, but potatoes increased 10 cents a bush-

DDT Spray Increases Milk Take

Dairymen Hear Of Fly Control

The use of DDT on dairy cattle during the summer months for fly control will result in five to 15 percent increase in milk production, T. H. Parks, Ohio State University specialist told a group of Jackson Township farmers Monday night.

Some 150 farmers gathered in the Jackson Township school to hear the advantages of DDT and 2-4-D aired by experts in the field of weed and insect control.

Parks said beef cattle sprayed during the summer with DDT at the Hartman farm gained one-half pound faster than those not sprayed.

He continued that if used properly, DDT applied at the right time and mixed in correct proportions is one of the most valuable insect controls we have for the house, garden, barn and livestock.

INSECTS vulnerable to DDT include flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, roaches, lice, ticks, squash bugs, flea beetle, clothes moth, grain weevils and fleas, parks said.

John M. Hagen of the John Lucas Co., discussed the use of 2-4-D in controlling weeds in corn and other farm crops.

The 2-4-D proponent warned farmers to use 2-4-D only as shown in the directions for it will kill alfalfa and clover in the grain fields.

When spraying corn, Hagen pointed out, stocks should be not less than 15 inches high and never should be treated after it begins to joint. He said the chemical will control weeds in small grain, but should not be used after the grain starts to joint.

Benes Pleads For Tolerance

PRAGUE, April 7—Czechoslovak President Eduard Benes—in his first speech since the Communist coup—made a fervent appeal today for intellectual freedom and tolerance.

The 64-year old Czech elder statesman spoke at ceremonies commemorating the 600th anniversary of Prague's famed Charles university.

An additional statement by Benes was read for the aging and ailing president by Communist Czech Minister of Education Zdenek Nejedly.

In neither speech was any reference made to the new Communist regime of Premier Klement Gottwald.

Lapel Mikes Getting Test

CLEVELAND, April 7—Starting next Monday, Cleveland city council members will be speaking from the heart, or at least as close to it as they can get.

Council President Michael M. Lucak has tested a new coat lapel microphone and OK'd the device for installation and use by six councilmen next Monday.

If tests with the six prove successful, the lapel mikes will be ordered for all 33 council members.

Engineer Hits Liquor Sales

COLUMBUS, April 7—Engineer William L. White of Newark, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was on record today with a recommendation that the state should get out of the liquor business.

White addressed the state WCTU institute last night in Columbus.

He told the temperance delegates he was in favor of strengthening the local option laws and charged that Governor Herbert had failed to clean up the liquor department.

White also assailed the Herbert administration for failing to reduce the state sales tax as the governor promised in his campaign for office.

Special Jury Awaiting Call

COLUMBUS, April 7—The special Franklin County grand jury investigating expenditure of $600,000 in state money for emergency veterans housing is expected to meet again in "a few days."

The session adjourned yesterday after hearing eight witnesses. E. G. Schuessler, special counsel for Attorney General Hugh F. Jenkins, who has been handling the inquiry, said the recess will last "for a few days, no doubt." The jury will meet on call from Jenkins.

Experts See Steel Controls

NEW YORK, April 7—The magazine Iron Age said today that the nationwide coal strike will have caused the loss of 600,000 tons of steel by the end of this week.

It warned that before the steel industry returns to normal, the strike may cost two million tons or more of steel that cannot be made up.

The national metalworking weekly emphasized that this would mean a tighter steel supply and more controls.

Flood Control Budget Hiked To $641 Million

WASHINGTON, April 7—The Senate appropriations committee will start to work today on a subcommittee-approved bill boosting next year's outlay for Army civil functions, mostly river, harbor and flood control work, to $641 million.

The Senate subcommittee added $102 million to the House-passed $538 million appropriation for Army fiscal functions in the year beginning next July 1.

Recommendations of the subcommittee would bring the outlay to within $24 million of what President Truman asked in his budget.

Some new projects were added to the House-approved program, and many allocations made by the House were increased. Changed figures, some wholly new, some increased and one decreased on rivers and harbors projects included:

Ohio—Cleveland, $2,650,000; West Virginia—Morgantown lock, $4,150,000. Changes on flood control projects included: Ohio—Dillon, $3,000,000; Portsmouth-New Boston, $2,407,000; East Fork, $40,000; Ripley, $10,000; Rocky Fork, $50,000; Big Walnut creek reservoir, $600,000.

Probation Writ Under Request

COLUMBUS, April 7—The Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District asked the state supreme court today for a writ of probation to prevent the Franklin County board of revision from considering the request of the railroads to exempt their personal property from the district tax.

The district claimed the board has no jurisdiction holding that all property, personal and real, was intended to be in the levy.

The railroads filed their request with the board of revision following a recent supreme court decision in a Zanesville pottery case holding that special use-structures shall be classed as personal rather than real.

3 New Schools Set For Summer

COLUMBUS, April 7—Columbus hopes to let contracts by late Summer on the first three schools under a $7,000,000 building program.

Superintendent of Schools George E. Roubush told the board of education Tuesday afternoon that the schools would be located at Indian Springs, North Linden and Fairmoor.

He told the board that the replacement of seven old schools would follow as soon as possible. Roubush also said free kindergartens for five-year-olds would be opened in all public schools in September.

Railway Unions Threaten Strike

CLEVELAND, April 7—Three railroad brotherhoods today threatened a national rail carriers' tieup unless settlement of their wages-rules dispute is reached within three weeks.

General chairmen of the three unions voted here yesterday rejection of a presidential emergency board's recommendations for averting the walkout.

The general chairmen termed the board's proposals, including a 15-14-cent hourly pay increase and certain rules changes, "not acceptable."

The chairmen added: "If an acceptable settlement is not reached in the matter prior to or on April 27 a strike date shall be set as soon thereafter as possible."

The statement also declared the three brotherhoods would be willing to resume negotiations with the carriers at an early date in an effort to reach a settlement.

Some 140,000 railroad workers are represented by the three unions—the Brotherhood of men and Engineers, the Locomotive Engineers, the Switchmen's Union of North Brotherhood of Locomotive Fire—America.

DDT Spray Increases Milk Take

Dairymen Hear Of Fly Control

The use of DDT on dairy cattle during the summer months for fly control will result in five to 15 percent increase in milk production, T. H. Parks, Ohio State University specialist told a group of Jackson Township farmers Monday night.

Some 150 farmers gathered in the Jackson Township school to hear the advantages of DDT and 2,4-D aired by experts in the field of weed and insect control.

Parks said beef cattle sprayed during the summer with DDT at the Hartman farm gained one-half pound faster than those not sprayed.

He continued that if used properly, DDT applied at the right time and mixed in correct proportions is one of the most valuable insect controls we have for the house, garden, barn and livestock.

INSECTS vulnerable to DDT include flies, mosquitoes, bedbugs, roaches, lice, ticks, squash bugs, flea beetle, clothes moth, grain weevils and fleas, parks said.

John M. Hagen of the John Lucas Co., discussed the use of 2,4-D in controlling weeds in corn and other farm crops.

The 2,4-D proponent warned farmers to use 2,4-D only as shown in the directions for it will kill alfalfa and clover in the grain fields.

When spraying corn, Hagen pointed out, stocks should be not less than 15 inches high and never should be treated after it begins to joint. He said the chemical will control weeds in small grain, but should not be used after the grain starts to joint.

Benes Pleads For Tolerance

PRAGUE, April 7—Czechoslovak President Eduard Benes—in his first speech since the Communist coup—made a fervent appeal today for intellectual freedom and tolerance.

The 64-year old Czech elder statesman spoke at ceremonies commemorating the 600th anniversary of Prague's famed Charles university.

An additional statement by Benes was read for the aging and ailing president by Communist Czech Minister of Education Zdenek Nejedly.

In neither speech was any reference made to the new Communist regime of Premier Klement Gottwald.

Lapel Mikes Getting Test

CLEVELAND, April 7—Starting next Monday, Cleveland city council members will be speaking from the heart, or at least as close to it as they can get.

Council President Michael M. Lukac has tested a new coat lapel microphone and OK'd the device for installation and use by six councilmen next Monday.

If tests with the six prove successful, the lapel mikes will be ordered for all 33 council members.

Engineer Hits Liquor Sales

COLUMBUS, April 7—Engineer William L. White of Newark, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was on record today with a recommendation that the state should get out of the liquor business.

White addressed the state WCTU institute last night in Columbus.

He told the temperance delegates he was in favor of strengthening the local option laws and charged that Governor Herbert had failed to clean up the liquor department.

White also assailed the Herbert administration for failing to reduce the state sales tax as the governor promised in his campaign for office.

Special Jury Awaiting Call

COLUMBUS, April 7—The special Franklin County grand jury investigating expenditure of $600,000 in state money for emergency veterans housing is expected to meet again "a few days."

The session adjourned yesterday after hearing eight witnesses. E. G. Schuessler, special counsel for Attorney General Hugh F. Jenkins, who has been handling the inquiry, said the recess will last "for a few days, no doubt." The jury will meet on call from Jenkins.

Experts See Steel Controls

NEW YORK, April 7—The magazine Iron Age said today that the nationwide coal strike will have caused the loss of 600,000 tons of steel by the end of this week.

It warned that before the steel industry returns to normal, the strike may cost two million tons or more of steel that cannot be made up.

The national metalworking weekly emphasized that this would mean a tighter steel supply and more controls.

Flood Control Budget Hiked To $641 Million

WASHINGTON, April 7—The Senate appropriations committee will start to work today on a subcommittee-approved bill boosting next year's outlay for Army civil functions, mostly river, harbor and flood control work, to $641 million.

The Senate subcommittee added $102 million to the House-passed $538 million appropriation for Army fiscal functions in the year beginning next July 1.

Recommendations of the subcommittee would bring the outlay to within $24 million of what President Truman asked in his budget.

Some new projects were added to the House-approved program, and many allocations made by the House were increased. Changed figures, some wholly new, some increased and one decreased on rivers and harbors projects included:

Ohio—Cleveland, $2,650,000; West Virginia—Morgantown lock, $4,150,000.

Changes on flood control projects included:

Wisconsin Puts Damper On Ring

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 7—

Wisconsin has taken the lead in the nationwide campaign to "civilize" boxing.

The Badger State Boxing Commission yesterday adopted five sweeping rules changes and took two more important ones under active consideration.

From now on, a boxer knocked down in Wisconsin will be compelled to take an eight count before he can continue fighting and a minimum of four will intervene before a boxer who has been knocked out may fight again.

A fighter who receives a serious concussion will be barred until examined and passed by at least three commission doctors; eight-ounce gloves will be used in all fights; and any boxer who has taken six straight defeats will be subject to investigation.

BIRDS HAVE PITCHERS

Help From Big Leaguers To Determine AA Finals

COLUMBUS, April 7—The generosity of parent major league clubs is going to play, even more than usual, a major role in determining the outcome of the American Association pennant race.

There's not a single association member that doesn't have holes to be plugged. In most cases, the clubs are banking on help from the majors, although the AAA league has its usual quota of rookie prospects.

The biggest rebuilding job faces Kansas City, last year's regular season pennant winner by an eight-game margin. About the only Blues holdovers are Outfielders Harry Craft and Hank Bauer, Infielder Blas Monaco and Pitcher Carl De Rose.

Even De Rose is a doubtful quantity. He hurled a no-hit, no-run game last year, but a sore arm limited his activity to only 46 innings during the season.

THE BLUES even have a new manager—rowdy Richard Bartell, who replaces Bill Meyer. Nick Cullop's Milwaukee Brewers, who beat out Kansas City in the playoffs last year, then went on to win the Junior World Series, are better off than the Blues.

The Brewers, however, need pitching and plenty of it to make up for the absence of Al Epperly, Vern Bickford and Glenn Elliott.

Cullop isn't certain whether he can depend on Heinz Becker, leading Association hitter in 1947, because the big first sacker has a pair of very bad feet and may quit the game.

Louisville, a factor in the playoffs seven of the last nine years, was strengthened during the off-season by the acquisition of Jerry Witte, who hit 40 homers for Toledo two years ago.

The Colonels need more pitching and infield help, but they are in a good position to get it from the talent-rich Boston Red Sox.

ONE OF THE best mound staffs in the league at this juncture is possessed by the Columbus Red Birds with such veterans as Charley Stanceu, Alex Patterson, Les Studener, Wayne McLeland, Ira Hutchinson, Art Herring and Steve Gerkin in the fold.

In fact, about the only apparent Columbus weakness is in the infield, and the parent St. Louis Cardinals helped out there when they returned First Baseman Natisin, a .311 hitter.

Minneapolis again has a concentration of hitting strength in Babe Barna, Andy Gilbert, Frank Trechock and others. However, the Millers also need bolstering in the mound department.

Indianapolis, St. Paul and Toledo, the also-rans a year ago, should start the season stronger than they did in 1947.

Toledo, with George Detore at the reins, may suffer from a switch in ownership. The Mud Hens were sold by the St. Louis Browns to the Detroit Tigers, but the change-over doesn't take place until next year.

In the meantime, observers wonder if the Browns will strip the Hens of all available playing talent, knowing they won't be backing the club in '49.

Steve Brudznick, coach of the Circleville clubbers, said he has two lettermen who will play with the team Friday. They are Tommy Eveland and William Richards.

Also out for the squad are Don Cook, Howard Weaver, Dan Musser, Paul Kraft and Mack Schumm.

Schedule for the coming season shows that Circleville will compete in 14 matches:

The schedule follows:
April 9—Chillicothe
April 12—University
April 16—Lancaster
April 17—Washington C. H.
April 20—at Upper Arlington
April 23—London
April 24—at Athens
April 27—Upper Arlington
May 4—at Chillicothe
May 7—at University
May 8—Ath

Tiger Divotmen To Open Friday

Members of the Circleville high school golf team practice their wares on the fairways and greens of the Pickaway Country Club this week, getting drives and other assorted shots in shape for their first match Friday here with Chillicothe.

Steve Brudzinski, coach of the Circleville clubbers, said he has two lettermen who will play with the team Friday. They are Tommy Eveland and William Richards.

Also out for the squad are Don Cook, Howard Weaver, Dan Musser, Paul Kraft and Mack Schumm.

Schedule for the coming season shows that Circleville will compete in 14 matches:

Our Spring Sale On Coleman Oil Water Heaters

SAVE 15%

...and get this amazing guarantee:

We hereby GUARANTEE to give you

1. Faster hot water
2. Lower-cost hot water than any other oil or electric water heater or your money back. Read this guarantee: Try a Coleman for 15 days. Compare with other oil or electric storage-type heaters of equal size. Coleman must give you hot water faster and at lower cost, or we will take it out and refund your money.

Amazing low fuel cost: A Coleman provides ample hot water for average family of four by burning only about ten gallons of oil a month. Store a whole winter's oil supply in a 50-gallon drum.

Works anywhere . . . town or farm—the Coleman burns fuel oil; no gas or electric connections needed. It's automatic, too—gives you plenty of hot water anytime at the turn of a tap. No off-cycle periods.
